LETTER FROM A MINISTER

During Advent we reflected the-fact that in sending Jesus into our world, God made himself dearly and plainly known. Despite the baggage we all tend to bring to this season, God's coming to earth involved no complicated rituals or intricate symbolism, but a child in a stable who was worshipped by poor, uneducated shepherds and well-to-do wise-men. Now I'm not breaking any theological ground when I say that in this momentous event, God took the initiative. Rev Rosie Dymond, a Welsh rector wrote, "The Incarnation is not about our reaching out to gather a helpless infant in our arms, rather, it is about none other than the Godhead reaching out in welcome to us." Not us welcoming God, but God welcoming us! I am privileged to be a Chaplain with the Methodist Homes Association: at The Limes in Newport Pagnell. This position I started just 12 months ago, and what a year it has been. I have met a new set of neighbours at The Limes, and the message of Advent is something that I have tried to share with them all. The simple, yet astounding fact that God entered the world in the person of Jesus.

Now as we enter yet another New Year, my message will be just the same. God entered the world in the person of Jesus. We all crave for new things, especially at New Year. I understand that for the Chinese, they always wear new clothes, new shoes, even new furniture if possible. Anything that is external that is. That's what we can change. But we cannot change us - the real me. I can change my clothes but it's still me. I can change my hairstyle, but it would still be me. I carry with me the Same old handicaps, worries, fears, the same sadness and miseries, and no amount of new gadgets, clothes, things, can really give me what my heart longs for. What we need are not new things, but a new life. We can have many new things but we cannot have a new life, unless we allow Jesus, that Child in the Manger to be part of our lives. Listen to Jesus, where it is recorded in John's Gospel, Chapter 10, and verse 10: "I have come that they may have life, and have it to the full" Let me put it to you with the story of a simple, illiterate man Who was converted through the work of the Salvation Army. "He went regularly to the Salvation Army citadel. One day he came home rather disconsolate. His wife said, "What's the matter?" He said, "I've just noticed that all the people in the Salvation Army wear red sweaters, and I don't have a red sweater." She said, "I'll knit one." So she knitted him a red sweater

The next Sunday after he went to the-citadel, he 'still wasn't happy. His wife said, "What is wrong this time?" He said, "I just noticed all their red sweaters have yellow writing." They Were both illiterate, but she said, "Don't worry about it. I'll embroider some writing on for you." She had no idea what the yellow writing on the red sweater said, a Salvation Army man said. Any of you know what it is? The man's wife had no idea what the letters said, and she couldn't read anyway. So copying a sign from a store window opposite their home, she embroidered the words of that store sign onto his red sweater. When he came back the next Sunday, she said, "Did they like your sweater?" "They loved my sweater. Some of them smile at me when they saw my sweater." What neither of them knew was that the sign on the store window she had copied read, UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT. (Stuart Briscoe, "Christmas 365 Days a Year") We don't really need better gadgets, better things, or better programmes. We need Jesus. Make this one of your resolutions this year - get to know Him better. Spend time with Him.
